Growth, the right kind of growth that positively impacts the city and the individuals and families that live here. Good growth is the kind that provides adequate levels of affordable housing, ensures the safety and prosperity of every resident and keeps the traffic on our streets and arterials flowing. It's about quality of life. We want to protect that.

Opportunity. It is incumbent on the city council to foster an environment of opportunity for all of us here in Renton. I'm committed to work to attract quality businesses, high paying jobs, and economic development to our city. For our young people, I will work to encourage trade and technical training and to remove obstacles for those who want to attend college. I will champion a business-friendly environment and work to create a thriving downtown area.

Safety is one of my top priorities. Crime is becoming a real problem here in Renton. I am deeply disturbed by the increase in violent crime and theft. Property crime in our city is more than twice the national average and nighttime prowling is a growing concern in many neighborhoods. I am determined to see that our police force has the tools and personnel it needs to keep us safe. I know we are all concerned about the increase in homelessness, in part fueled by the shocking effects of the opioid crisis. I will address these issues head on by encouraging public-private partnerships with NGOs and proven relief organizations to find and implement tested and proven solutions that work.
