About Pam

Our job is to empower our youth, not burden them.

I am running for re-election to Sammamish City Council as it is a long journey to accomplish real change, like combating climate change, creating a community where all are welcome, included, and have equal access to all that Sammamish has to offer, creating a more transparent government and increase our community engagement, and ensuring we have a sustainable financial future through long-term financial planning and economic development.

I am excited to say that we finally have a council that shares these priorities and has strong momentum tackling the big issues of our day.

That's why we need to continue the momentum we just started to build over the last year. Our kids and our grandkids are counting on it!

Help me achieve this lasting change for Sammamish by re-electing me to our city council.
