Hello Tanya,

The filing that he is referring to was when I was told to update Bart Hayes' information, then once I did, I refiled the reports. Those contributions were always there, I just needed to add the information.

I will go back to that filing and see if there is any other missing information. At the time of the complaint, I believe Bart's was the only one that I was told to update. I am at work now but will check these when I have time at home.

If there is any other missing information, should I edit those people's information and refile the report? Or will this trigger Conner to file another complaint? This guy brags about reporting candidates, on his social media accounts. Apparently, he's filed over 2,000 complaints against candidates and elected officials, trying to make some sort of name for himself. Lucky me, that he wants to add me to his ever growing numbers!

I will get on this right away.

Thank You,

Steve
